

Atsushi Kuga

Dr Atsushi Kuga is currently working as a clinical research physician at Eli Lilly Japan from 2015. He graduated Kobe University School of medicine in Japan in 2000 and hold medical doctor license in Japan. He is a board certified neurologist of the Japanese Society of Neurology with clinical experience for more than 12 years. His considerable interest and effort have been made onto the unveiling of molecular pathology of hereditary muscular disease. In 2011, he earned Ph.D. in Kobe University Graduate School of Medicine. Now he is responsible for drug development and medical affairs activity in neuroscience area of Eli Lilly Japan.